The 1947 Nightingale

Published by

THE SENIOR CLASS

*Rex Hospital School of Nursing
Raleigh, N. C.*

Foreword

“This is your Youth; a halfspent play,
A tragi-comedy on the boards of Time,
A play that scarcely knows futility,
Whose drama critic, Love, is in his prime,
A world that’s made of troupers and stand-ins
And dialogue some hidden prompter flings:
Such is your Youth: a press review, a cue,
A vaudeville without a name today;
This striking scenery that surrounds you now,
This cast tomorrow will have gone its way;
So, you stripling Thespian, O Youth
Speak out your lines before the curtains fall,
Act following act, until the last is done,
Realizing that there is no curtain call!”

Miss Virginia Miles

BECAUSE of her devotion to that which she believes and because of her belief in us, we the Senior Class of 1947, proudly dedicate this volume of THE NIGHTINGALE to Miss Virginia Miles.

In Memoriam

The School

“I have no flesh, no blood, no life;
No secret passion eats my heart away;
My slaves are many; my influence, rife;
I’ve never felt the ache of dull decay;
I’ve held the bodies of the thousand strong,
And yet, I have no body, claim no age:
I’ve loved, led, laughed with the bursting throng;
I am immortal, for I am the STAGE!”

“We are the voice of the actor’s soul,
Which cry for rest, O rest from Life’s dull role
Into an unhearing, unseeing audience flung,
Into a host of vagueness carelessly slung;
Lost are our cries, lost phantom cries of fright,
Lost cries tossed on the inharmonic chords of night;
O hear us, heed us, somehow recognize,
Acknowledge us, give us a curtain rise!!”

Walking With God

To be a nurse is to walk with God
Along the path that our Master trod
To soothe the aching of human pain,
To faithfully serve for little gain,
To lovingly do the kindly deed—
A cup of water to one in need,
A tender hand on the fevered brow,
A word of cheer in the living now.
To reach the soul through the body's woe—
Ah, this is the way that Jesus would go.
O white-capped girls, with hearts so true,
The Great Physician is working through you.

To a Journeying Comrade

To you who are bearing a load up some steep hillside
Burdened with grief and sorrow, or pain and care
I have a word to say to you, O journeying comrade,
Do not despair.

You never can tell at all at what near turning
Some pleasant vista may meet your tired eyes
To lift your spirit up and dispel your weeping
With glad surprise.

You never can know what lies beyond a hilltop,
Perhaps some shadowy valley, cool and sweet,
Whose gentle downward sloping, after your climbing
May rest your feet.

Always, O comrade, there is a chance that your burden
May slip from your back before the wayside dawn
And O, my comrade, no matter how hard the going
Keep on!! Keep on!!!

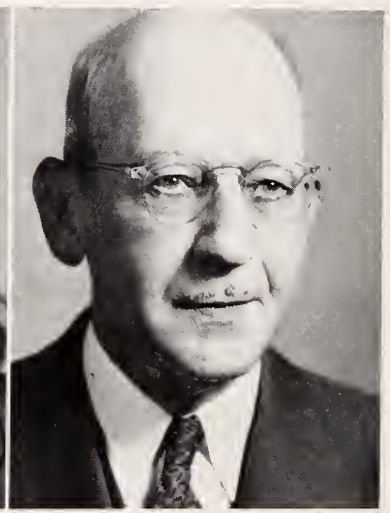

GRACE NOLL CROWELL.

WE THE CLASS OF 1947, of the aforesaid state, county, and city, being of strong bodies and sound minds, realizing that we shall soon depart from our Alma Mater to begin duties in various fields of our profession, do hereby make and declare this to be our Last Will and Testament, and do will and bequeath our vices, virtues, and our most highly esteemed possessions to members of the incoming Senior Class, and to others of interest thereabout Rex Hospital:

ARTICLE I

SECTION I. To our beloved Hospital we bequeath our undying devotion and lifelong obligation always.

SEC. II. To the trustees of Rex Hospital we wish to express our thanks for your thoughtfulness and kind consideration shown us during the past three years. With infinite appreciation, we thank you for helping make possible the new additions to the hospital.

SEC. III. To our parents and friends we bequeath our heart felt gratitude, unlimited love, and sincere appreciation for the untiring effort they have put forth to help us reach our present position.

ARTICLE II

SECTION I. To Mr. Gaddy and Mr. Thornton, we express our sincere appreciation for the interest they have shown us throughout our training.

SEC. II. To the Doctors we express our thanks for the interest they have shown in us, and for the help they have so willingly given us during the past three years.

SEC. III. To Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Campbell, we leave our deeply felt thanks for being real "Mothers" to us, and for "keeping us straight" during our three years of training.

SEC. IV. To Mrs. Egerton, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Halliburton, we express our appreciation for being so gracious and charming to our friends and visitors "at the desk" downstairs.

Epilogue

Such was your Youth, of cues unspoken and lines forgotten now, of stage-crews, lights, and nerve-tensed audience, and of actors, standing yet with glory shining in their eyes, piercing the fog of wonder. Who shall pull the curtain? When shall the actor get his needed rest? And which of us shall make the division between the acts, saying, "Make exit here; draw curtain; end of scene"? Which? Which? From whom does the actor draw his wages? He that pays, pays well. Lift up your eyes to the lights, those colored gelatins that created unreality; lift them; look. No longer shall you need to pantomime: no longer need your short speech be rehearsed. Lift them; pierce the fog of wonder, covering your eyes. O, Youth, son of a thousand stage-struck sons, you call for spotlights, alone and smothered by wonder; but fame; fame creeps up, a steady understudy. O, Youth, where are you with the curtain fall?
